Corporation Commission hires spokeswoman

Arizona Corporation Commission announced the hiring of Angie Holdsworth as the agency's new communications manager.

Holdsworth, a long time veteran of ABC 15 News in Phoenix, is an Emmy-award winning reporter. She will work with the five commissioners and Jerich to inform Arizona residents about the ACC's activities. Holdsworth is a Nebraska native and has been in Arizona since 2003.

"I'm looking forward to Angie bringing her years of experience as a story teller to the commission," executive director Jodi Jerich said. "There are many great things happening here and I will rely on Angie's knowledge of the media to provide local and national reporters with the information they need."

"I am excited to take my years of experience in the media and help the Corporation Commission tell its compelling stories," Holdsworth said.

Holdsworth begins Monday.
